

Workshops for Women a Friends of Oil Creek State Park Event

www.friendsocsp.org

Friends of Oil Creek State Park is a chapter of Pennsylvania Parks and Forests Foundation (PPFF). Chapters are in a position to generate and spend money on specific park needs in a way that doesn't infringe on the park's already tight budget.

This event called, CHICKS in the STICKS, is for all women 18 and older and is scheduled for Saturday, June 16.

Sponsors are needed to help defray the costs of advertising, the catered lunch, gifts/prizes, and supplies for classes.

This is a one day event in which each woman can participate in up to four activities related to the great outdoors.

Each class is, a "hands on" experience and taught by an experienced instructor. All equipment and supplies are provided.

The purpose of this event is to introduce women to a variety of outdoor related activities they can continue to pursue on their own if desired.

Any proceeds will be used to continue this event and make improvements to Oil Creek State Park.

Example classes include archery, bike maintenance, backpacking, beekeeping, bird identification, Dutch-oven cooking, geocaching, fly fishing, herb identification, uses of herbs, primitive fire making, outdoor photography, terrarium building, art of wood-burning, nature art, and kayaking.

A catered lunch will be provided. Other activities include prize drawings, a group photo, American auction and more.

This is the fifth year of an annual event at the park. Last year's event offered 25 classes and was attended by 84 participants. The cost to the participants is $45.

Donations can be money, merchandise/gift cards, and time/labor for this event. Please see page two for details of donation options. Advertising for your business will be at the event and on our website friendsocsp.org.

Thank you for your consideration!
